

BIG DIAMOND THEFT BELOW "DEAD LINE"

Maiden Lane Jeweller Turns His Back and Is Robbed of $43,591 in Gems.

CASE PUZZLES THE POLICE

Thief Opened a Locked Desk and Stole Satchel in Three Minutes.

A middle-aged, well-to-do jeweller, Isaac R. Theise, with a yellow satchel filled with $43,591 worth of diamonds, goes to his eleventh floor office at 47-49 Maiden lane at 8 o'clock in the morning. He unlocks his door, unlocks his rolltop desk, thrusts the satchel inside, relocks the desk, relocks the door and steps into a washroom in the corridor three feet away. In three minutes he returns. Using his keys once more he enters his office and opens the desk. The satchel and the diamonds are gone.

He has seen nobody, heard nobody. He runs into the office of another jeweller. He cries that he has been robbed—not only of his entire stock of precious stones, but of all his wife's ornaments, including a diamond ring that he gave her yesterday, their wedding anniversary. The two men rush back into Theise's room and frantically search. No satchel, no diamonds.

They telephone for the police. They telephone the janitor down at the street door to let nobody out of the building. The janitor has seen nobody carrying a satchel. The boys who run the three elevators have seen nobody. A thief, working below what used to be the Fulton street dead line, has carried $43,591 worth of diamonds out of a big Maiden lane building whose every tenant is a jeweller. He has done it in three minutes by daylight and nobody has seen him come or go.

Tells His Story in Tears.

This is the synopsis of the story which Mr. Theise, in tears, told the police yesterday morning and which caused thirty-five detectives, the best men in the department, to swarm in Maiden lane all day.

They viewed the office and the rolltop desk, talked searchingly with Mr. Theise, crawled around looking for footprints or finger marks and found none, stamped over the roof and peered over the cornice to the amazement of all stenographers working in other buildings, questioned every employee, remembered minutely that there have been four other robberies or attempted robberies in this building within a year and went back to Headquarters convinced that Mr. Theise had told them the exact truth.

Mr. Theise has been in business for about twenty-five years and has been an importer and jobber on his own account for eight years. He lives at 32 Fuller place, Brooklyn, with his wife and son, Benjamin. He says that he went to his office unusually early yesterday.

From his safe deposit box of the Maiden Lane Jewellers' Vault Company, Maiden lane and Broadway, he got his stock of set and unset diamonds, which he never keeps in his office. He also slipped into his satchel an envelope containing his wife's jewelry. He had promised to take home the anniversary ring to show to his wife's sister. Arrived with his satchel at his office, next door to the Jewelers Exchange Building, he found that he had got there ahead of his assistant, Louis Bloor.

Mr. Theise's office is partitioned into three small rooms. His desk is in an inner room, the door of which stood open as usual. Behind that door, as it swings back against a side wall, is formed a triangular space in which a man might hide. Mr. Theise says he is convinced that the robber, having got into the office with a passkey, was waiting in this corner, expecting to spring out and blackmail him, seize the satchel and run.

"Maybe my going to the washroom and thus giving him an opportunity to get the diamonds without slugging me saved my life," he says. "I know Mr. Theise. And he adds, 'All my jewelry's stock was in the satchel, and I don't know whether I shall be able to keep on in business or not. I know I can pay even cash for it.'"

Newspaper men who scrutinized the rolltop desk found what seemed to be jimmy scratches near the lock. The lock worked so imperfectly that the desk could be opened without a key. Whether or not it had been in that condition before yesterday Mr. Theise said he did not know. He always used a key.

The janitor, William White, and the watchman, August Kruse, and the elevator boy, Charles Isola, who had taken Mr. Theise up to his office, all said that they had not noticed a satchel in Mr. Theise's hand when he came to business, but they couldn't swear that he hadn't any. However, a man who is employed on the twelfth floor and who was in the elevator with Mr. Theise, says that the satchel was surely there.

Other tenants in the building all speak well of Mr. Theise. They say there can be no question that the robbery took place as he described it.

Best Detectives at Work.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty sent fifteen detectives down from Headquarters in charge of Capt. Tunney and Lieut. Armstrong. Such men as Jim Brennan, Frank Busby, Frank Cassassa and his partner, McKenna, Duggan and Meyers, accomplished their chasers, were in the party. They cooperated with Lieut. Collins and Lieut. Somers and twenty men of the downtown detective district.

They were especially leved up by this narrative of robbery, because it is the climax of a series in this building. In 1911 there were three unsuccessful attempts to blow safe. In February last year last worth $25,000 was stolen from the safe of Emanuel S. Rose on the seventh floor. Mr. Theise's own safe was vainly drilled last year. There have been many other robberies in the Maiden lane district.

CAN'T CLEAR HOUSEMAN CASE.

Disappearance of Plum Beach Woman—an Still Riddle to Police.

The police were still unable last night to account for the disappearance of Mrs. Olga Houseman, who said good-bye to her husband Saturday evening and went for a row in Jamaica Bay off Plum Beach.

During the morning her husband, Alonzo Houseman, who is employed by the Star Paper Company in Brooklyn, identified the satchel found by a fisherman off Barren Island in Jamaica Bay as the one in which he last saw his wife as she rowed away.

The piece of green cloth attached to one of the earlocks, he said, was of the same material as her dress. The initial handkerchief he was not so sure about.

The detectives, and there are a dozen on the case, have concluded that there are no convincing indications of crime. If Mrs. Houseman was drowned they think it was accidental. It is pointed out that the waters of Dead Horse Channel, where she was rowing, are treacherous. They think the satchel may have got stuck on a coral and that while the woman was trying to push off her grip slipped and she tumbled into the water.

It was learned yesterday that Mrs. Emma Sheridan, who was drowned in Jamaica Bay on May 14, was not the victim of a crime, but a suicide. There has been some attempt to connect her death with Mrs. Houseman's disappearance.

SOCIALIST EDITOR MAY GET 15 YEARS IN JAIL

Scott Convicted of Inciting Hostility to the Government in Silk Strike.

PATERSON, N. J., June 3. Alexander Scott, editor of the Weekly Issue, a socialist paper published in Passaic, was convicted by a jury of eleven men in the County Court this afternoon of "inciting hostility to the Government." The indictment was based on articles and editorials in which the Paterson police were held up to scorn and ridicule.

In an issue of February 28 Chief Justice Brinson was referred to as "Bimston the strike breaker" and the police were called "the brass buttoned anarchists of Paterson." A headline had Bimston "overriding the Government." The defense called no witnesses. The maximum penalty is fifteen years imprisonment.

Scott is the second man to be convicted before County Judge Klenert since the silk strike began. He was sentenced on Thursday. Pat Quinlan, the I. W. leader recently convicted, will not be sentenced until his associates have been tried.

Forty strikers indicted for unlawful assembly were placed on trial before Judge Klenert this afternoon. They were arrested for refusing to move away from the Harding mill on April 28. Assemblyman Buckley announced today that he would introduce a bill to get them to ask Gov. Flanders to call a special session of the Legislature for the consideration of a proposition to have a commission investigate industrial conditions in Paterson.

OPEN CHURCH TO STRIKERS.

Police May Make Arrests There as They Would in Halls.

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 3.—The trustees of the Unitarian Church have offered the use of the church building to Socialists and striking silk weavers for meeting purposes. This action was taken because Chief of Police Jacob Dunn had succeeded in inducing owners of halls to close their places during the strike of the Schwarzenbach-Huber Company's weavers.

The chief did not approve of the church's action. He said he had warned proprietors of halls that he would hold them responsible for maintaining disorderly houses if speakers overstayed the law by making inflammatory speeches.

"If my men hear any objectionable speeches in the church," he said, "I would expect them to make arrests as they would in a hotel or hall."

NEW HAVEN'S NEW SCHEDULE.

Two More Through Trains Between Here and Boston.

The construction of the Hampden Railroad running sixteen miles from Bonds-ville on the Central Massachusetts to Springfield, thereby connecting the Boston and Maine with the New York, New Haven and Hartford, has made possible an avoidance of the transfer between the North and South stations in Boston for passengers in operation by August 1. Hampshire. In view of the possibilities for greater convenience to travellers the New Haven road announces a new service for June 22.

Two new through trains will be put on between New York and the North station, Boston. The running time will be six hours and stops will be made at Ware, Haverhill, Lowell, Boston and New York. Three new trains will also be installed between Northampton and Boston via Springfield. A change of trains in the North station will be necessary for through passengers. Under the new schedule a train will leave Boston for New York at 11 A. M. and one will leave New York for Boston at 10:30 A. M. The night trains will leave New York and Boston at 11:30 and 11:45 o'clock respectively.

The new electrical repair shops of the New Haven at Van Ness, the Bronx, will probably be in operation by August 1. They are fully equipped not only to take care of the ninety-nine electric locomotives and twenty-three multiple-unit motor cars owned by the railroad, but also to build new locomotives.

MAYOR LACES FOUR 'PITIFUL' ALDERMEN

Miserable Little Scamps Framed
Lies to Oust Waldo,
He Says.

DOESN'T MIND NAGGING

Is Used to "Petty Politicians" —Curran Says Worst Is to Come.

Mayor Curran replied yesterday to the Aldermanic committee's recommendation that Police Commissioner Waldo be removed. He called Aldermen Curran, Folks, Esterbrook and Hamilton, who voted for the recommendation, "pitiful little political fellows" and "poor, miserable little scamps." The report, he said, is a "tissue of falsehoods."

The clearing up of the Police Department, he said, has been done "without the help of any little Aldermanic committee or any contemptible little political district leaders, who are going around denouncing the police because their gambling houses and their worse houses have been closed up."

He added that what Waldo has done best has been condemned "by every pitiful little political whelp and scamp in the community." The Board of Aldermen could carry a whole cartload of these men around in his breeches pocket.

The Mayor's statement follows, in part:

"For three and a half years, in the midst of many distracting things, and while I have been working and browbeaten over some of the largest things afoot anywhere in the world, I have found time to work out some large reforms in the Police Department, larger than in any other department, as the people of the city are now beginning to see. And during all that time certain little people have been nagging at me and trying to fret me."

Pitiful Little Aldermen.
"And these four pitiful little Aldermen now come in at the beginning of the summer with their tissue of falsehoods. No wonder the committee would not stand for it. The Board of Aldermen will not stand for it. There are some honorable men in that board who would not stand for such a base thing. And these four pitiful little political fellows think they are doing some great campaign work for next fall. Let them wait and see."

They had better pass a resolution removing themselves and sink out of sight. Poor little fellows. Mentally and morally Waldo could carry a whole cartload of them in his breeches pocket without knowing that they were there. Just look at this statement in this report which says that when written complaints come in from citizens accusing inspectors and captains of wrongdoing, the case is to refer the complaint to the officer accused to investigate himself. Just think of an infamous falsehood like that being put in an official document. There never was any such thing in the Police Department even in its worst days."

Not Annoyed, Really.
"And so I will not manifest any annoyance now, because in fact I feel none. I do not care what this little committee says. I intend to go right on with my work. There is so much to do, and so little time to do it. But in due time it will be found that all those who have tried to create insubordination in this splendid force of 10,000 men will go to the wall. The people of this city will never suffer such a thing."

"These four little Aldermen have caused witnesses to disclose grafting as long as twenty years ago, and are trying to attribute it to the present for political purposes. At the beginning I saved myself to institute a sort of a judicial inquiry into the Police Department. I was going to sit a couple of days a week in the midst of all my other work and call witnesses. I believe I could have disclosed much. But just at that point this little Aldermanic committee was appointed. I then saw that of course it would never do for me to be conducting a public investigation at the same time. To boost the force on all sides adversely would have broken down its discipline."

Chairman Curran read over the Mayor's statement and said:

"Just by the way of a little friendly advice I would suggest to those issuing statements for Mr. Waldo to call a little committee to try to wind until the committee's entire report is in. Section two will be ready to-morrow."

The second section of the report will deal with gambling and the social evil in their relations to the Police Department.

Mr. Curran had no retort to make to the Mayor's characterizations of the "four pitiful little Aldermen." With regard to the statements of the Mayor in direct reply to the charges made by the Aldermen against Waldo he referred to the minutes of the investigation.

In reply to the charge it was a falsehood that complaints of grafting were referred to the accused officials themselves for investigation, Mr. Curran referred to the testimony of E. V. O'Daniel, an investigator for the Bureau of Municipal Research, who testified that he had found 270 graft complaints referred either to the person accused or to some one in close touch with him within the preceding fourteen months.

Points to Graft Testimony.

In answer to the Mayor's statement that "only two revelations of graft" within the past four years had come out, Mr. Curran pointed to the testimony of Mary Goode, George A. Sipp, Thomas J. Dorian, Mary Coleman, a lawyer, Harry Sapira of the African Feather Company, and others, each accusing one or more policemen of taking graft.

Commissioner Waldo made no further reply to the report. The Commissioner is preparing a detailed reply to the twelve charges made against him in the report.

Alderman Robert J. Downing, Republican, who, with Alderman Shipley, did not vote on the recommendation to remove Waldo, said that he was not opposed to the recommendation and that his only reason for not voting was that he believed the report should be voted on as a whole instead of in five sections, as planned by Chairman Curran. Asked if he would vote against the report as a whole when it comes before the committee next Monday, Mr.

Downing said that if it is a fair summary of the needs of the department as revealed by the investigation he will support the whole thing, including the recommendation for Waldo's removal. Alderman Shipley, he said, had taken another meeting of the Curran committee, had been called for today to consider the second section of the report, and the following three sections will be considered at other meetings of the committee this week so that the whole report will have been considered section by section before the final vote on the report as a whole next Monday.

DOCTOR'S NAME FORGED BY POISON PEN WRITER

One Letter Made "Arrangements" for Mrs. Jones at an Asylum.

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 3.—The possession of Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. Jones by the anonymous "poison pen" letter writer was not confined to letters sent directly to the Jones family. Letters sent to other persons bearing a signature purported to be that of Dr. Jones also will figure in the action, it is said, when Mrs. Nelson L. Pollard, who is under $500 bail, is brought before Judge Mahon for the hearing on Monday.

Dr. Britton D. Evans, superintendent of the State Asylum for the Insane at Morris Plains, got a request not long ago signed with the name of Dr. Jones asking if arrangements could be made at the asylum for the commitment of Mrs. Jones. It is understood that Dr. Evans answered that accommodations could be provided.

Dr. Jones was mystified by the letter from the asylum head and later called on Dr. Evans. He was shown the communication, which may be offered in evidence at the hearing.

It was learned today that the anonymous letter writer secured much of the stationery upon which the "poison pen" missives were prepared while calling at the homes of wealthy women. Many of the letters bear the letterheads of prominent business men or the monograms of their wives.

Mrs. Pollard continues to deny herself to all but intimate friends. In a telephone conversation with a sister, she denied to-night she denied that a meeting of the societies of the Christ Episcopal Church was held at which she openly accused another Elizabeth church woman of writing the letters.

"There has been no meeting at my house," she said, "and all stories saying that I have named the 'other woman' are false. There is much I would like to say, but I am acting on the advice of counsel."

SERVED JUST BEFORE SAILING.

Dr. Carl Hess (sings) on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

Just as the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm left her pier at Hoboken yesterday, bound for Bremen, Deputy United States Marshal Beckman slipped up to a dignified German gentleman and handed him a piece of paper. The German gentleman threw the paper on the deck and said a number of things rapidly.

It was Dr. Carl Hess, a director of the Farbwerke of Elberfeld Company, and of Friedrich Bayer & Co. of Elberfeld, Germany. The paper was a notice of suit brought against the company by James Dobson of Philadelphia under the anti-trust law. Dobson charges the company, which has offices at 119 Hudson street, Manhattan, with maintaining a monopoly in dye stuffs and asks $1,200,000 damages. The American headquarters of the company are in Philadelphia.

Dr. Carl Hess, a fellow director of Dr. Hess and also a passenger on the ship, was served a little later. The two directors came here several weeks ago, but the chance to serve them came late. The alleged monopoly he has had to pay overcharges of $400,000 since 1905.

TO FIGHT MRS. HARRIS'S SUIT.

Executors Will Resist Paying $200,000 From Gen. Baker's Estate.
